Arizona's Timber and Coal.

It is preposterous to suppose that Arizona is destitute of timber. Even many of the people of the Salt River valley believe that all of Arizona is a barren waste, and the idea that there is as extensive and as valuable a pine forest in Arizona as in Oregon and Washington is hoisted at. In the eastern states the prevalence that Arizona is treeless is almost universal, and it will be a long time before that can be changed, when so large a number of our own people are ignorant of the resources of our territory in this particular line.

Another of the resources which will be opened and in time prove as valuable as anything in the territory, is the coal fields in the northeast corner. Several thousand square miles of bituminous coal is encountered just north and east of the Painted Desert region. This coal crops out in many places, and at one point has a thickness of 23 feet. The San Carlos coal lands lie south-east of the Painted Desert tract and extended northeast into New Mexico. It comes to the surface in many places and far as now known, consists of three strata, the first two each having a thickness of four feet, while the last and lower one is often found fifteen feet thick. One trouble which has prevented the development of the San Carlos coal measures has been the fact that until recently it has been covered by the Indian reservation. The opening of this tract to entry the past summer, now that the presidential election has passed, will without doubt prove a drawing card in inducing capital to invest in this territory. The San Carlos coal fields are also reported to contain rich deposits of copper and gold, and are already attracting considerable attention from both miners and capitalists in search of good gold or copper properties.—Ex.

How to Prevent Croup.

SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS. HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.

Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by F. J. Watron.
